2015 AGGIE FEST WILL BENEFIT MERCED COLLEGE AGRICULTURE PROGRAMS

The 2015 Aggie Fest, sponsored by the Merced College Agriculture Division and Yosemite Farm Credit, returns to the Merced County Fairgrounds on Saturday, Nov. 14 from 4 to 7 p.m.

More than 200 brands of beer and platters of sausages and cheese will be featured, along with silent and live auctions. Tickets to the 9th annual “Suds and Sausages Sampler” will be sold in advance only.

Net proceeds from this event will benefit agriculture students at Merced College in the form of scholarships, attending leadership conferences, and educating the public about agriculture and higher education.

“Our students are the future of the agricultural industry,” said Agriculture professor Kim Donaher. “Support for this event will help ensure their success and facilitate our ability to ‘pass the torch’ to the next generation of farmers and agriculture industry professionals.”

Tickets are $40 each in advance. Guests can save by purchasing a four-ticket package for $140. The four-ticket package can only be purchased through Friday, Nov. 6. No tickets will be sold at the door and participants must be 21 years or older to be admitted.

Table sponsorship opportunities are also available to businesses for $300. This will include admission to the event at which two company representatives will serve beer and offer their company’s marketing and information materials to share with the public. Sponsorships must be submitted by November 2.
