TRADITION

REGALIA

The history of academic dress dates back to the medieval European universities of the 14th century. European universities continue to follow varied patterns in cut and color of gown, as well as in type of headdress. In the United States, universities have standardized the academic dress so that its features generally are uniform.

Gown: The participants in the ceremony wear fully-earned academic regalia. Gowns are traditionally black for academic degrees, except where universities have authorized the use of colored gowns. The highest earned degree is indicated by the pattern on the sleeves: pointed for the bachelor's degree; oblong for the master's degree and full for the doctorate. The doctor's gown is trimmed with three bars of black or colored velvet on the sleeves and velvet facing down the front. President's gowns typically feature four bars on the sleeves.

Hood: The shape and length of the hood also reflects the highest degree held. The color of the velvet trim indicates the field of study and the color and design of the lining designates the college or university granting the degree.

Color Trimmings: Color trimmings on gowns and hoods indicate fields of study; white for Arts, Letters and Humanities; maize for Agricultural Studies; crimson for Communication Studies; midnight blue for Criminal Justice; copper for Economics; brown for Fine Arts; pink for Music; dark blue for Philosophy; peacock blue for Public Administration; citron for Social Work; beige for Business Administration; golden yellow for Science; apricot for Nursing; light blue for Education and sage green for Kinesiology.

Cap: The standard cap is the mortarboard, usually black with a black tassel. Gold tassels may be worn by persons holding doctoral degrees.

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The academic procession – dignified, colorful, and festive – is led by the college banners through the entrance to Don Odishoo Field. The march begins with the College President, Board of Trustees, and keynote speaker. The procession continues with the Deans of each area and is completed with faculty and managers. They form two lines along the track and welcome the graduates as they enter the stadium and take their seats. The graduates are led by the student speaker and honors graduates.

DR. CHRIS VITELLI

Superintendent/President

Dear Merced College Graduates,

Graduation signifies the pinnacle of your academic endeavors. Undoubtedly, your journey has been marked by a series of twists and turns, highs and lows, and a blend of challenges and triumphs—and here you stand. You have conquered obstacles, tackled your fears, and surpassed expectations, all fueled by your commitment to forge a brighter future for yourself and your loved ones.

Today's commencement is steeped in a longstanding tradition that celebrates the close of one chapter in your life and the beginning of the next. This is a time to reflect on your accomplishments with pride and to look forward with hope to the promising future that awaits you.

Graduates, this is your moment, yet it's clear that you haven't reached this milestone on your own. You have been guided by a dedicated team of educators and professionals, whose innovation and compassion rank among the finest I have seen throughout my time in higher education. I extend my deepest appreciation to the Merced College trustees, faculty, classified professionals, and administrators, who embody our district's motto: Students are our focus, and we are known by their success.

Equally crucial to your success are the family members, friends, and supporters who have sacrificed so much along the way. Many of them are here today, and those who couldn't attend in person are surely celebrating your achievements and this significant milestone in your life.

I encourage you to maintain a connection with your alma mater, Merced College, and to seek ways to support future generations of Blue Devils, just as others have supported you.

On behalf of the Board of Trustees, administrators, faculty, and classified professionals of Merced College, I proudly congratulate you on achieving this significant milestone.

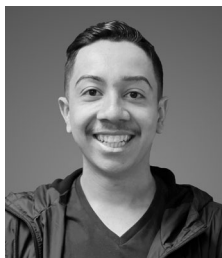

Sincerely,

Dr. Chris Vitelli
Superintendent/President

JOSE CASTILLO

ASMC President

Good evening, Merced College Students and Staff.

We are here to celebrate the accomplishments of these wonderful students who have made it so far, overcoming obstacles but still managing to push through and get to this day.

I always remind myself that hard work pays off. Today, my classmates have done their best to get to where they are now. Their families are extremely happy to see them achieve this milestone and excited about their future. Always remember: Success is not final, and failure is not fatal. It is the encouragement to continue moving forward that counts, making a big impact on your future.

After today, you will have to prepare for what's awaiting outside in the professional world. Your education at Merced College has given you the necessary tools to succeed in each of your professions. Yes, you may face a lot of challenges on your way to success, but that doesn't mean you give up. Continue to strive to attain your goals. Classmates, be proud of the work you've completed and achievements you've earned at Merced College.

Fellow Blue Devils, give your parents and supporters a huge thank you, because they were also there on your journey, on good and bad days, managing to encourage you to keep pushing forward. We all encounter tough times, especially when you are working and attending school at the same time, yet you still managed to achieve your goals and dreams. We navigated in-person and online classes, all the while maintaining positive attitudes and smiles.

So, feel proud to celebrate this milestone. Lots of sweat and tears went into today's accomplishment. You are "Made in Merced and Built for the World," and taught by the best: Merced College.

Congratulations graduates! Associated Students of Merced College is extremely proud of you. Go Blue Devils!

Thank you,

Jose Castillo
